

The adoption of mobile phones is constantly on the rise. We use mobile terminals in all areas of our lives; and, in Spain, the number of lines is now even higher than its total population. Moreover, it is estimated that the number of mobile lines associated with machines, the so-called Internet of Things, already exceeds 15 billion devices worldwide.