

Sustainable smart cities

We will live in smart cities that will make our daily lives easier thanks to artificial intelligence and connected networks. These large-scale technological facilities for smart buildings, renewable energies, and autonomous vehicles will be applied to energy distribution, transport systems, public lighting, and waste collection. They will allow us to optimise resources and use programmable networks to solve public problems.

